Job Advertising Improvements

Some head teachers have said it can be difficult to recruit high quality classroom support staff.

As a result advertisements for support staff in Rhondda Cynon Taf schools are now available on the internet through the e-teach system. This is in addition to the facility to place advertisements in the internal vacancy sheets and at job centres.

Potential applicants can download application forms directly from the website. This means that applications can be easier to read because they can be typed up. When head teachers ask for support staff applications to be placed they will need to confirm whether the standard job

School Remodelling Website

The School Remodelling website includes a wealth of helpful information. Key areas of the website are now bilingual. Recent additions include:

- copies of the education circulars on remodelling including advice on pay policies etc.
- a school cover policy
- the form for advertising posts
- job descriptions for support staff (including nursery nurses, caretaker and teaching assistants) and teaching staff (teachers, deputy head teachers) and headteachers.

These are downloadable in word so they can be amended to suit school needs

- a list of alternative options for Planning, Preparation and Assessment (PPA) time including theatrical and sporting groups
- keynote speeches on improvement strategies by educational professionals
- an outline of the external funding opportunities available for staff development.
- details of the training available for teaching assistants

The website address is www.rctednet.net/remodel. It includes a link to the e-teach job site.

Support for remodelling in schools

Gareth Jones and Greg Reynolds ended their School Remodelling secondments at the end of the summer 2006 term. Thanks go to them for all their hard work.

Elizabeth Clark, Principal Officer - School Remodelling, will continue to provide advice and support on staffing reviews and the implementation of teaching and learning responsibility points (TLRs), school support staff job descriptions and the workload agreement.

Elizabeth is available at the Education Department, Ty Trevithick, by phone on 01443 744139 and at elizabeth.clark@rhondda-cynon-taff.gov.uk.

Doing the Level 2 Numeracy Certificate on line

Gillian Matthews from Glenboi Primary School recently achieved the numeracy certificate on line. Here she outlines her experiences:

"When I first thought about taking the adult numeracy test level 2, I really thought it would take a long time for me to improve my skills. When I contacted, Dean

Howells, the tutor at Ystrad Mynach College, he was very reassuring and guided me through the course with support. There are classes provided at the college if the individual prefers, but I found working on my own computer at home the best way to practice my skills.

There was no one there looking over my shoulder at my mistakes, but there were comprehensive easy to follow instructions to guide me through the course. The content is relative to everyday situations, so there was nothing that I hadn't seen before. What it did was explain how to do the calculations correctly.

I enrolled on the course in September 2005. When I felt ready, about February 2006, I rang Dean and he set up a time to go to the college and take the test.

Although I had practiced, I was still very nervous on the day. You get the results straight away, and when he told me after the exam that I had passed, I was so excited! I don't think I had had such a high for a long time. I walked around like a Cheshire Cat with a big smile on my face and a secret thought. (I could do it too!) Now I was ready to take the HLTA assessment...

I completed the test with learn direct and within about 3 weeks total time spent practicing, I was ready to take the test. It really boosted my confidence. If anyone is thinking of doing it, don't hang around.

Together with the HLTAs who were approved last year there are now over 30 HLTAs in RCT. This is a great achievement. Thank you to all those head teachers who supported the process.

Frequently asked questions

Here are some of the more common questions and answers:

Can there be temporary Teaching and Learning Responsibility (TLR) payments?

No. TLRs can only be awarded to teachers who have significant responsibilities attached to posts in the staffing structure. This means that TLRs cannot be awarded on an unplanned or ad hoc basis. The responsibilities for which a TLR is awarded must be 'sustained'. It is unlikely that a responsibility could be described as 'sustained' if it lasted for less than a year.

Permanent TLR posts can however be awarded on a temporary basis to teachers who are temporarily undertaking the responsibilities attached to a post in the structure to which a TLR has been attached, for example to cover maternity or sick leave, a vacancy or a secondment. Teachers who receive TLRs in such cases will not be subject to safeguarding when the TLR ends.

Can two teachers share a TLR payment?

No, unless they are job sharing a post which has a TLR attached. A TLR may not be shared between two full-time teachers or between a full-time and a part-time teacher.

Can schools make changes to their school structure after the 31 March 2006?

Schools are free to make further changes to their structure at any time after 31 March, provided that they follow a similar process including consultation with staff and representatives of recognised unions.

In cases where a radical restructuring takes place a similar lengthy period of consultation should be undertaken. If the changes are less significant, consultation may be carried out in a much shorter timeframe or even confined to those directly affected, providing there is consultation with the unions.

Can a teacher be paid based on the number of hours they work each week?

Yes. For example, if someone worked 3.5 hours a week, their salary would be based on 3.5 hours divided by 32.5 hours times the appropriate salary point.

Should I pay a teacher working in my school on a self-employed basis?

Staff should not be paid on a self-employed basis because:

- if someone worked regularly for an organisation, they could be classified as having an employer/employee relationship. This could mean that the Inland Revenue would require the person to be employed under PAYE arrangements. If there any Inland Revenue rules were breached there would be a heavy fine.
- the school would need to be assured that the appropriate legal arrangements were in place. For example, if the teacher was self-employed they would need to have a VAT company registration number.
- the procurement rules may require a tendering process
- they may not have the approdescriptions should be used. Hard copies of the support staff job descriptions were sent to schools in July 2005 and September 2006. The job descriptions and e-teach website are available on www.rctednet.net/remodel/schoolSupport.htm.
